Arms and eyes upraised toward the sun and a prayer on his lips, an elf begins to glow with an inner light that spills out to heal his battle-worn companions.

Chanting a song of glory, a dwarf swings his axe in wide swaths to cut through the ranks of orcs arrayed against him, shouting praise to the gods with every foe's fall.

Calling down a curse upon the forces of undeath, a human lifts her holy symbol as light pours from it to drive back the zombies crowding in on her companions.

Clerics are intermediaries between the mortal world and the distant planes of the gods. As varied as the gods, clerics strive to embody the will of their deities. An ordinary priest, a cleric is a

I played this game while at EGX a few weeks back and I adored it straight away.
The visuals and the music are stunning and the game is very fun to play.

I highly recommend this game.. For fans of strategic collectible card games, Ironclad Tactics will provide hours of entertainment and offers the ability to go deep into its deck-building mechanics. For more casual players, the game's difficulty spikes and deck micro-management can quickly feel overwhelming. It's an okay casual game.

<http://steamcommunity.com/sharedfiles/filedetails/?id=1220427834> Unlocked all achievements!. Aight, just finished it. Took me about 8 hours, nice writing and plenty of choices to go with. Got me invested in characters and i'm already contemplating a second playthrough.. It's fun for a while on sale, but for 10 USD it should have more plot and local multiplayer/deathmatch.. Don't buy this game, if you expect a easy to complete game like the first game of the sequel. There are achievements that are hard af, that will pi you off with numerous bugs that are reported in the discussions. I also made several suggestions and bug reports, but apparently nobody cares. The developer literally created an abandon-ware. This game is like an orphan growing up on the street. Nobody takes care of anything. Not about bug reports, achievement issues, suggestions, any topics in the discussion. It's just an abandoned money-maker.. Legit work in progress! Now that streaming has been implemented and released into the retail PlayClaw there will be much more improvements etc..

This Dev or Dev team is very active in the steam community forums and is really nice person.

Hi5 to the makers and publishers of PlayClaw and Dev team!

What to let folks know that there computer setup may effect PlayClaw Positively or Negitively so keep that in mind. If you having bad frame drops etc.. might be a bottle neck a number of things generally HD can be CPU or GPU or not enough ram etc.. do your research!

Download install and launch PlawClaw and easy to configure, to configure for twitch streaming goto your twitch.tv/dyingjedi account and then on the left when logged in click dashboard, then clisk streaming key then click the link that says reveal streaming key and attach that to the PlayClaw and your all set back out with it enabled and your closes servers and Walla your ready to stream!

Overlays are fun and going to be re-worked and your gonna have cool changes here shortly but as of this release they are useful and fully function without issues so far.

Boring point and click that's too slow and derivative to be interesting. The puzzles are solved by mashing one of the several dozens of items in your inventory to the screen via trial and error. Not fun.. Why's it so hard to hit stuff? I'm standing right in front of a tree trying to break it down, just not connecting right. Trying to hit enemies, not connecting right. I wish i could walk through the tall grass around the town or flowers instead of getting blocked by it. The game looks interesting to me cuz im a sucker for pixels but it still needs some polishing up on. For now im saving this game for later and will update my review eventually.. Cool little puzzle game. Interesting gimmick, pleasant music, nice graphics that serve their purpose.. The controls suck. It's a crapshoot whether you'll stop, move clockwise, or move counterclockwise. And this is one of those games that requires precise timing of controls. So that's kind of a big deal.

The tougher levels just give you more obstacles and less time to react to them, and a single mistake means restarting the level. So it feels less like skillful maneuvering and more like memorizing which buttons to press at which time. More frustrating than fun, IMO.

It's also really short, but that's understandable at this price point.. Turba takes the enticing idea of a Bejeweled-style game that utilizes your music library and screws it all up by incorporating features that don't work as they should, resulting in a nearly unplayable mess. The simple task of matching three or more blocks of the same color is complicated by "bomb" blocks, which are blocks that will cause a 3x3 set of blocks to turn gray if they aren't matched within a certain number of beats. Adding to this problem is the brainless design decision that your board fills up with blocks with each beat of the song. This ensures that fast songs are literally unbeatable on certain play modes, even without the addition of bomb blocks. Worse yet, the game does not accurately detect beats, so blocks appear at completely random intervals. Finally, cheaters have devised a way to obtain the top scores on literally every song, so forget about ranking in the top 3 on anything, no matter how obscure it is. I've spoken with one of the devs (They have another terrible-looking game on Greenlight), and he sees nothing wrong with the game and has no plans to support it any further. This game is a horrendous waste of money at any price.. This is ostensibly an open world game. You can go anywhere. Walk up to any locked door. Explore distant lands. Get crushed by any random encounter. You have complete and total freedom to waste your time in any way you so desire.

I like that this game takes a retro aesthetic and applies a lot of modern game design philosophy to it. When faced with a tough encounter, there is more often than not a choice offered to make things easier. This results in a more interesting game, no doubt. The music was alright, but got old after a couple hours. Very appropriate for a game like this.

Just about everything else about this game is lock stock standard RPG fare. I have a tough time parsing if that's intentional or not. Like I mentioned earlier, the map is essentially unlocked from the outset, but right away you start running into monsters that can down you in one hit if you wander off into the wrong area. So, in my experience, I got exceptionally lost almost immediately. I think the intention is that you grind and keep grinding, but there is only so much time in my mortal existence, so that might be off the table.

This game is truly frightening. I had no idea where to go, so I looked at a world map. Big mistake. I'd recommend this game only on three conditions.

1. You have waaaay too much time to burn
2. You are a hardcore fan of older 8-bit RPGs
3. You have an iron will. Vague instructions, NPC shenanigans and brutal difficulty spikes do not deter you. In fact, getting repeatedly beaten down only makes you stronger. You thrive in a game that forces you to deduce, nay, manufacture your own path forward.

Otherwise, I'd just pass on this one.

It's neat, maybe one day I'd give it another whack.

. Very good game! I do not know why people would want to hate it.
